

Solutions for the inertization of conductive and explosive dusts

The inerting system is designed to collect and dispose of explosive dust and particles safely. Explosive materials are vacuumed inside the container, where they come in contact with a liquid (inerting bath) that immediately makes them none explosive.

